STATE PROVISION FOR WIGOWS AND ORPHANS.

SUR.—In these days of child welfare schemes and councils, and when the social ministry of mothers is being at length recognised, I am certain that your readers will be glad to learn that your readers will be glad to learn that a movement is afoot to secure the establishment of pensions for all widowed mothers is ismilar to the system at present estating in the lunited States of America. Great Britain has already taken action, and, as the invitation of the State of America. Great Britain has already taken action, and, as the invitation of the State of Children's Association, the Hon. Judge Neil, the pioneer of this great reform, has visited Great Britain and France in pursuit of the eampaign.

I have been in communication with Judge Neil, and have been assured by him of his desire to visit our city if suitable arrangements can be made. This I hope to bring about in a short period, and would, therefore, appeal for the support of your readers in order to make his visit fruitful of good results. The reports of all visit fruitful of good results. The reports of all visit fruitful of good results. The reports of all visit fruitful of good results. The Peers mustered in exceptional force for the consideration of the Corn Production Bill as it was returned to them from the Commons. The Opposition were strong in their denunciation of the action of the Lower Chamber in rejecting amendments which, it was insisted, were inserted wholly in the interests of the Bill itself, and there were murmurings of revolt, which, however, came to nothing. A hint from Lord Milner that persistence in a course of opposition to the views of the other House might lead to the destruction of the Bill was sufficient to prevent members on the Opposition benches from proceeding to extremes, though it added to the force of their protest. In the end their lordships acquiesced with the Commons, and the Corn Bill, in company with other measures, subsequently received the Royal Assent.

Mr. Bonar Law's answer regarding the possibility of a new Budget and increased taration during the present session was carefully worded, and merely stated that he could not promise what Mr. King, almost alone among members of the House and the public, appears to desire. But it does not follow that the Chamcellor will in no circumstances make a demand this year for additional revenue. That must depend upon two factors—the cost of the war and the yield of the existing taxes. In the third place, the main body of British Labour is thoroughly loyal to the cause of the Allied Governments. This is proved by the speeches yesterday of such captains of Labour as Mr. Henderson and Mr. Thorne, and by the memorandum of the party's peace aims which has been prepared by its executive. In that memorandum the Labour Party demands the evacuation of Belgium and Serbia, the return of Alsace and Lorraine, and of Poland, to their rightful owners, and the "complete democratisation" of the Central Powers—terms which Germany will not accept until she is beaten to her knees. It is, we think, not merely first critical days was not of such a decisive possible, but probable, that the Conference would have made a complete volte face yesterday but for its loyalty to Mr. Henderson. The whole situation has been so badly muddled that a vote against Stockholm would have been, in effect, a vote of censure upon Mr. Henderson, and such a vote could hardly have been expected from an organisation which is peculiarly sensitive in all matters of political and economic privilege.

first critical days was not of such a decisive character as to determine the Army's attitude in their favour. Their policy was simply to call a general stoppage of work throughout the country and to remain quiescent, avoiding all provocation; their hope was that these methods would be sufficient to secure a bloodless revolution and bring about the fall of the Government and the Monarchy. The indefiniteness of their plan and objects put them at an obvious disadvantage, and they economic privilege.

AN APPARENT IMPROVEMENT. The Intermediate Education Board for Ire The Intermediate Education Board for Ire-land published yesterday the results of the ex-aminations held in 1917. The results show that more students presented themselves for exami-nation than in 1916. They show also that their answering was on the whole better than the answering of last year, assuming that the tests of the candidates' knowledge were of such the same difficulty in the two years. It does not appear so good, however, as the answering of 1915. The total number of can-didates examined in 1917 was 11.415. The num-

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE THE IRISH AT YPRES.

I have heard to-day, says the Special Corre-endent of The Times, some details of the re-st fighting of the Irish troops in the attack ant fighting of the Irish troops in the attack of August 16. In a dispatch at the time I told how gallantly they had gone forward, sweeping over the whole ground before them, to the altimate limits of their advance, but leaving behind them certain strong positions, manned by large bodies of the enemy. The most fortishle of these places were the Recommendation of these places were the Recommendation. by large bothese places were the Somme re-guld, Pond Farm, and Gallipoli. About this last-named, especially, was high ground from which German machine guns were able to play se our advancing troops. A gap was thus made b our line. The Germans counter-attacked bavily from the north and east, and, aided by the gap and their troops left in strong positions in the rear, succeeded in forcing our advanced lines back. In the course of this fighting, the Irishmen, though largely out-numbered and aften surrounded in small bodies on all sides, fought with the greatest heroism. Pond Farm gems to have been the scene of a terrific gruggle. Here the Germans, besides clusters of concrete defences, had fortified numbers of gapits and earthworks, and improvised defences. There was hard bayonet-fighting before we were in possession of the position. Then counter-attacks came from the front and the fanks. A small remnant of Irishmen fought on till there were only two, both counded, to surrenders Many tales of individual gallantry are told. Two instances, specially, should be recorded, one being that of an officer of the Royal Army Medical Corps, glached to the Leinsters, who spent five hours is circumstances of the greatest danger, tending the wounded, and behaving in all ways with gensummate heroism, and the other that of a geman Catholic Chaplain, who went up with the mone sustained and cheered there were bombed with five tons of high explosives. One by the gap and their troops left in strong posi-tions in the rear, succeeded in forcing our ad-panced lines back. In the course of this fighting,

1,234,000 FOR; 1,231,000 AGAINST.

By the comparatively narrow majority of 5,000—the figures were 1,224,000 for and 1,251,000 against—the Labour Party Conference in London yesterday reaffirmed its desire to be represented at the Stockholm Conference, and protested against the Government's decision not to grant passports to British delegates. Mr. Murphy presided over some six hundred delegates. Mr. Henderson made a long speech in defence of his action, and he counselled Labour to remnain associated with the Government, and to sink any party feeling. The conference passed a vote of confidence in Mr. Henderson, and expressed approval of the loyalty he had displayed in all his dealings in the very trying circumstances in which he had been placed. Two representatives of the Russian Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates were present. M. Vosanofi, one of them, extended fraternal greetings to the conference.

MR. HENDERSON'S SPEECH.

Mr. Henderson, who was loudly cheered on rising, asid that the personal issue which had been raused was not of his seeking. If he were to consult his own feelings, he would have preferred to have remained absolutely silent, and to have buried at unpleasant incident the ought never to have occurred. (Hear, hear.) Certain charges had been preferred against him in the capacity in which he had been acting. Certain charges had been preferred against him in the eapacity in which he had been acting. Mr. Robert Smillie appealed for the withdrawal of the amendment, as the delegates were not instructed on that question. Mr. Handerson, he said, was chucked. (Laughter.) If Henderson had sold Labour he would still have been a Cabinet Minister.

After luncheon, Mr. Henderson said that the Conference was entitled to elect twenty-four, the Fabians two, and the other two Socialist organisations were going to have eight—four for each body.

Mr. French, of the Typographical Association, moved the following amendment:—"That the question of sending delegates to the Stockholm Conference be decided by rejerendum by members of the trade unions affiliated to the Labour Party."

At the International Seafarers' Conference in London yesterday it was unanimously decided to hold an International Conference at Copenhagen before the close of the year. M. Mr. Peter Wright, Newport, Mon., said that the Scandinavian seamen were in the grip of Germany, and the Copenhagen Conference would be a powerful influence in removing it. Now was the time to rapudiate the International Federation, as at present constituted.

MEATH FARMERS AND THE FIXED CATTLE PRICES.

At the monthly meeting of the Meath Agricultural Committee held at Navan yesterday, the adoption of the Queen's County Agricultural Committee's resolution protesting against the eattle prices fixed by Lord Rhondda was moved by Mr. Boggan, who said the scale of fixed prices was going to ruin the small farmer. He advised the appointment of a deputation to wait upon-the Vice-President of the Department. Mr. Hewitt said the Food Controller was advised by Sir T. W. Russell in most matters; and Lady Everard said the Vice-President should be asked to explain, as Lord Rhondda stated the prices were fixed after consultation with the Iriah Department of Agriculture. A deputation of four members was appointed.

were the outcome of long discussion, in which all the interests of this country were considered. The Vice-President asked the deputation to remember that all these were war measures. He did not think that when the war ended and things were on a different plane that a shilling a stone for oats would be a had price. Mr. Maher drew attention to the restrictions as regarded the export of horses. He thought that was a mistake, as there were plenty of horses in the country.

POTATO PRICES.

Mr. Maher said that the price of £6 per ten for potatoes was considered very low.

The Vice-President drew attention to the price of potatoes that day—from £3 to £4 a ton. The Government, which was supposed to have done nothing for agriculture, had told the farmers that after September 15 they would be at liberty to demand a minimum of £6 a ton. That would be a good thing for the farmer; the Government would pay the difference between the two prices.

Mr. Maher admitted that there were plenty of potatoes in the country.

The Vice-President—You have a guarantee of £6 a ton, while too market price is not more than £4 at the present time. As to the price of eattle, he (Sir Thomas) thought that was the important question. The prices mentioned were not fixed by the Department of Agriculture. So far as the Department was able to gather public opinion, there was not much said against the prices that the Food Controller had fixed for the months of September, October, November, and December.

Mr. Maher—I agree with that, in a way.

The Vice-Prosident—You commenced by saying that 74s, ought to go right through till May. The farmers whose views we candidity obtained say that the prices fixed for cattle for the next four months are not unreasonable. The difficulty begins when you get to January. I have not met a single man who said that 60s. Is a fair price for the month of January. Their replies to our questions were to this effect—that if there was a slight rise on the 60s. in January, and another slight rise in Fobruary, and the price of feeding stuffs was substantially reduced, as Lord Rhondda had said he would do, that things would not be so had. The Department had represented those views we also the subject by Lord Rhondda, at his invitation, on Friday in London, and these views would be pressed upon him.

FARMERS' CASE OVERSTATED.

After some further discussion. (REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.) Great Britain has been the first of the Powers to answer the Papal Note on peace
Count De Saiis, British Minister, was received by Cardful Gasparri, and gave him a Note, saying that the British Government acknowledged the receipt of the Pontifical Note, which they would examine in a benevolent and serious aprile. Cardinal Gasparri was gratified at this received accurate and everyward the hone that the been would examine in a benevolent and serious spirit. Cardinal Gasparri was gratified at this prompt answer, and expressed the hope that the belligerents would admit that the four fundamental propositions contained in the Papal Note had already been approved by the heads of their Governments, and by the responsible Ministers of Great Britain, Russia, France, Germany, and Austria, while President Wilson's Note of Decemer 18th, 1916, implied all that was contained in the Pope's programme.

The following retrospective particulars regarding the delivery of the Papal Note are interesting as showing the spirit of the Vatican. Knowing that the Allies at the beginning of August were meeting in conference in London, the Holy See hastened the despatch of the Note, hoping to be able to deliver it while the conference was still proceeding, but the courier who carried it arrived in London at three o'clock in the afternoon ou the very day on which Baros Sonaino left in the evening. However, the text of the Note was published in England and America on the evening of August 18th, while it was delivered to the Austrian Government on August 17th, the day after its publication in Rome.

AMSTERDAM, Monday.

FARMERS' CASE OVERSTATED.

After some further discussion.

The Vice-President said Mr. Maher had painted a gloomy picture, which he was not warranted in doing by the facts. The farmers of Ireland had done well, and he was sure they would not be damped in their enthusiasm for tillage, as Mr. Maher fosred they would be.

Mr. Maher said he spoke for himself.

The Vice-President said the deputation had overstated the case on the general question, and that would be the opinion of the public next day. If the vice-s of the deputation were in any way representative of those of the general body of the farmers of Ireland, then their cause was lost.

Mr. Maher said they had come to the Department to talk the matters over quite freely and frankly.

The interview then closed.

MEATH FARMERS AND THE FIXED CATTLE PRICES.

At the monthly meeting of the Meath Agricultural Committee held at Navan yeaterday, the adoption of the Queen's County Agricultural Committee, a resolution protesting against the eattle prices fixed by Lord Rhondda was moved by Mr. Boggan, who said the scale of fixed prices was going to ruin the small farmer. He advised the appointment of a deputation to wait upon-the Vice-President of the Department to the prices of the pressure of the prices of the pr
